WEBS® LED Indoor and Outdoor Mass Notification System

The WEBS® LED Tower is the latest addition to the comprehensive array of Talk-A-Phone's WEBS® Mass Notification products, featuring highly visible LED illuminated signs that can display critical information relayed to them. Three LED displays are fitted into the WEBS® tower to dispatch custom messages and to enhance the visibility of emergency towers.

Once the emergency call button is pushed, the LED signage automatically changes, attracting attention to the scene and deterring possible perpetrators. Visual messaging activated remotely by the security personnel can alert those in the area of a mass notification event, reaching out to hearing impaired individuals among intended recipients.

Emergency LED signage allows the family of WEBS®-enabled devices to go a step further insuring the message delivery in emergency situations by utilizing both visual and audible sensory modalities. With addition of augmented WEBS®-enabled Mass Notification towers, both analog and native IP, WEBS® network can deliver the "right message, right people, real time"™ with improved accuracy and over amplified distance.

Talk-A-Phone's Wide-Area Emergency Broadcast System (WEBS®) is a family of mass notification devices that can be integrated into a comprehensive emergency communications system, bringing security coverage to heretofore-neglected corners of a facility. The wide array of installation options makes WEBS® a valuable security instrument at college and corporate campuses, mass transit locations and parking facilities worldwide.
