

ASIS proudly congratulates the thousands of professionals who have sought and attained the CPP—the profession's highest recognition.

Distinguish Yourself— Become a CPP!

CHRISTOPHER GIUSTI, CPP

Assistant Inspector in Charge
U.S. Postal Inspection Service
Washington, DC

Industry: Law Enforcement

Job Responsibility: Manages national programs associated with mail fraud, child exploitation, asset forfeiture, and money laundering.

Education: Masters Degree in Business Administration

Years in Security: 20 Year Earned CPP: 1996 Year Joined ASIS: 1994

Why I Pursued the CPP: "The CPP is the highest achievement of personal growth and development for security professionals."

How the CPP Benefits Me: "The CPP has provided me the foundation to develop effective security and crime prevention programs and an opportunity to benchmark and network with security and law enforcement professionals."

Value of the CPP: "The CPP designation benefits not only the individual who obtains the certification, but also the organization where the CPP is employed. By obtaining the CPP designation, the individual is challenged to stay abreast of security industry practices, procedures, and technology. In turn, the organization benefits because the individual with the CPP has the background and knowledge for developing cost-effective security programs."

Why Security Professionals Pursue the CPP Designation: "The CPP designation gives security professionals the opportunity to develop a broad-based understanding of the security industry and to be recognized internationally for their efforts to enhance their security expertise."

Achievements: In 1997, at the ASIS 43rd Annual Seminar and Exhibits, Mr. Giusti was a guest speaker on Mail Center Security and the assistance the U.S. Postal Inspection Service can provide to organizations to develop an effective mailroom security program. In two succeeding years, the U.S. Postal Inspection Service received the Distinguished Achievement Award from ASIS due to Mr. Giusti's production of training videos for postal employees: in 1997, for "Security: Your Right—Your Responsibility," and in 1998, for "Security: Keeping You Safe on the Streets." Mr. Giusti co-authored an article in the November 1998 edition of Security Management on corporate mailroom security. In the August 2000 edition of Security Management, Mr. Giusti was interviewed on Internet fraud and the role of the U.S. Postal Inspection Service. Mr. Giusti is an active member of the Item Development Group (IDG), the organization that is responsible for developing test questions for the CPP exam. He will assume the chairmanship of the IDG in 2001.
