The top navigation bar is red with white text for 'About ASIS', 'Membership', 'Education & Events', 'Certification', 'Standards & Guidelines', 'Publications', and 'News'. The 'Education & Events' menu is open, showing a list of options: 'Calendar', 'Education Programs', 'Global Conferences', 'ASIS Diamond Club Security Buyers Forum', 'myGPS', and 'Speaker Resources' (highlighted in yellow). The 'Speaker Resources' sub-menu is also open, showing 'Call for Presentations' (highlighted in yellow), 'Prospective Speakers', and 'Speaker Application'. The main content area features a world map background and a blue box with the text 'Face recognition technology for real-time video screening'. Below this, the 'Call for Presentations' section is visible, with the heading 'Call for Presentations' in red. The text describes the opportunity for security professionals to share their expertise and experience by making a presentation at global conferences. It mentions that ASIS provides high-quality security education and networking opportunities for security professionals. The multiple day, multiple track formats offer a self-directed, facilitated learning environment with security education sessions and interactive forums. Education sessions, designed to transcend all industry sectors, focus on current and emerging issues, best practices, and the complex challenges facing security professionals in today's global environment. Abstracts for presentations are accepted based on topic relevance, timeliness, and expertise of the speakers. Abstracts on all security related topics are
