

Student Writing Competition

2013 Call for Papers

Annually, the ASIS Academic and Training Programs Council sponsors a competition that rewards students who demonstrate excellence in research and academic writing relevant to the security and assets protection profession. The competition is open to any associate's, bachelor's, or master's level student enrolled in a college or university during the 2013 academic year.

Select one of the following topics:

- ◆ Improving the image and reputation of the security profession
- ◆ Protecting information and intangible assets in the 21st century
- ◆ The challenge of securing cyberspace: man or machine?
- ◆ Leveraging low-cost/low-tech solutions for contemporary security challenges
- ◆ The impact of globalization on security, assets protection, and organizational resilience
- ◆ The most promising technologies to meet tomorrow's security challenges

Visit www.asisfoundation.org for detailed topic descriptions

Format:

Submissions must be written in English and follow accepted standards for academic papers.

Requirements:

- ◆ Between 3,000 and 6,000 words, not including appendices or attachments
- ◆ Times New Roman or Arial 12-point font (tables, charts, and footnotes may use smaller font size)
- ◆ Illustrations, charts, tables, and graphs that reinforce content are acceptable but don't apply towards word count requirements
- ◆ 1½ or double-spaced
- ◆ Use of recognized styles, such as APA, Chicago/Turabian, or MLA

Contact:

Kevin Peterson, CPP
Phone: +1.703.318.7181
Email: asis-swc@mindspring.com

Cash Prizes

$1,500

Graduate winner

$1,000

Undergraduate winner

$500

Honorable mention awards

Graduate and undergraduate winners receive complimentary registration to either ASIS International 60th Annual Seminar and Exhibits in Atlanta, GA or one ASIS International global conference (New York, Asia, Middle East, or Europe) in 2014.

Submission

Due Date:

December 1, 2013

For more details, visit
www.asisfoundation.org