ASIS Benelux Chapter Connects with Future Professionals

Tara Visscher

Nick Chavanu

By Tara Visscher and Nick Chavanu

The idea of student mentorship within the ASIS International Benelux Chapter was launched two years ago. The aim was to support newcomers in their professional development by giving them a warm introduction into our network, answering questions, and providing career advice.

We are pleased to have this opportunity to share our experiences with members across Europe.

"A network of pure gold"

Tara Visscher, former student at Avans Hogeschool, The Netherlands, now works at the Royal Netherlands Marechaussee (Military Police) at Schiphol Airport.

"Being introduced to experienced professionals and being mentored was great. I have learned so much! In college, they teach you the basics of what you need to know. What they do not teach you is the experience, how it really works, and what kind of professional one can become."

"I never thought that the professionals would be so open and helpful. Thanks to my ASIS network I became an intern at KPN (largest telecommunication company in The Netherlands) where I had the chance to learn from amazing supervisors every day."

"ASIS members helped me, wanted to teach me something new, something you do not learn in a classroom. They wanted to tell me about their experience. Even though I was young and not yet graduated, the ASIS members were interested in my opinion about security. Even as a student I was welcome."

"A real door opener"

According to Nick Chavanu, student, University of Antwerp, Belgium, "The ASIS mentorship program has opened doors for me. During study, you are learning a lot from the books, but with the student-mentorship program, you are meeting people with real life experience."

"The events and conversations with my mentor translated the literature I read into the practice of the actual work. Thanks to the student-mentorship programme, I further enrolled in the ASIS network whereby I met new people and found an interesting internship."

"Through the conversations I had with my mentor I also came to an interesting thesis subject. So far, the student mentorship has really provided added value to me. To potential participants, I would say ASIS gives you the opportunity, but you need to do the legwork yourself."

ASIS UK Chapter Agreement with the Charity Post Traumatic Stress Disorder Resolution

By Chris Aldous, CPP, PSP

The ASIS International UK Chapter Board has put in place a unique agreement with PTSD Resolution, a charity that provides help for UK Forces' veterans suffering the effects of military trauma. Crawford Chalmers, CPP, ASIS UK Chapter lead on Charity Liaison, initiated the project in 2017.

Security staff are more likely than the general population to be involved in serious incidents that could result in exposure to trauma. Therefore, ASIS UK looked for a relationship with experts who could support members should they be affected by a traumatic event, whatever the cause.

Under the agreement, PTSD Resolution will provide a service to ASIS UK to help members and their immediate family (spouse/partner, children) to resolve the symptoms of trauma through the charity's nationwide network of some 200 therapists. Members and their families can access the service at a preferential fee rate, and veterans of the UK Armed Forces can use the service free of charge.

The therapy programme is brief, confidential, and does not require a doctor's referral, says the charity. It involves on average five, one-hour sessions of therapy, to relieve the disabling symptoms of trauma. A single course of treatment is generally all that is required.

PTSD Resolution also delivers workshops to security organisations - TATE (Trauma Awareness and Training for Employers). The half-day course enables line managers and personnel development staff to recognise possible symptoms of trauma displayed by employees in the workplace, and then to help them seek professional support promptly.

Chapter Chairman David Clark, CPP, PSP, PCI, says, 'It has taken a number of months to reach an agreement on how the services can be delivered to members. The issue of privacy and confidentiality of members' details was a key concern, but we now have an agreed working process. ASIS UK is pleased to be able to offer the support supplied by PTSDR.'

This service was announced to the ASIS UK membership at Chapter AGM on the 8th December.

Chris Aldous, CPP, PSP is secretary of the ASIS UK Chapter.

For the first time at the German Outstanding Security Professional Awards (OSPAs), young professionals have also been honoured. In the new category "Outstanding Young Talent", the jury identified young talents who, within their first years in the profession, are already significantly influencing the security industry.

Stefan Köhler of Infraserv won first prize. In recognition of his achievements, he receives an annual membership in the ASIS Germany Chapter and free participation at ASIS Europe 2018 in Rotterdam. His travel costs will be funded by the sponsor BCM Academy. Second place went to Vladyslav Moyerer, Corporate Security TV, and third place to Feride Yildirim of WISAG Security and Service.

The award was presented by Denis Ziga, responsible for young professionals at the ASIS Germany Chapter, and Oliver Fein, ASIS Germany Chapter chair and member of the OSPAs jury. The OSPAs are awarded annually in cooperation with the German Association for Security in Industry and Commerce (ASW) to recognize outstanding achievements of companies and persons from the security industry. The new category was initiated by the ASIS Germany Chapter as part of its Young Professional initiative in collaboration with the ASW.

A must-see for visitors to Ireland, the Guinness Storehouse in the heart of Dublin's St. James's Gate, was the venue for the ASIS International Ireland Chapter Annual General Meeting on 21 November.

An exceptionally well-attended event was no doubt boosted by the prospect of enjoying the one thing that is "Good for You" - perfectly poured, creamy pints of Guinness - with friends and colleagues following the AGM and the nomination of the 2018 office holders.

The event was sponsored by AXIS Communications Ireland and following the AGM formalities, attendees were treated to several exceptionally interesting presentations covering a number of today's hottest security topics, including the incoming General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) and its impact on Video Surveillance; Privacy by Design; and IoT in Security.

The Chapter was honoured to welcome Godfried Hendriks, CPP, secretary of the ASIS International Board of Directors, to the event. Having given an informative overview of the work of ASIS and the upcoming ASIS Europe 2018 event in Rotterdam, Hendriks presented a token of appreciation to the Irish Chapter, which was received on behalf of the members by John Bailey, ASIS Ireland Chapter chair.

We also had the pleasure of hosting Regional Vice President Andy Williams, CPP, and Russell Penny, CPP, external lead, ASIS UK Chapter, who took the time to travel to Dublin to help us celebrate the end of another very successful year for the Ireland Chapter. The collaboration is part of our commitment for the chapters to work closely together in our quest to deliver dynamic seminars, training, and education to and on behalf of our profession.

An informative and enjoyable afternoon was concluded by joviality and good food allowing friends old and new to connect and reconnect in wonderful surroundings.

By Werner Preining, CPP

On 16 November the ASIS International Austria Chapter met at the headquarters of OMV, the Austrian Mineral Oil Company, where they were hosted by chapter honorary vice-chair, Paul Reither, head of security of OMV.

Assistant Regional Vice President Stefan Berlin and Chapter Chair Werner Preining provided updates on ASIS International and chapter activities.

ASIS International's Annual Seminar and Exhibits is Now the Global Security Exchange

On 5 December, ASIS International, announced it has changed the name of its annual security conference from the ASIS Annual Seminar and Exhibits to the Global Security Exchange (GSX). Building on a 60+ year legacy of security event distinction, the newly branded GSX will take place in Las Vegas, Nevada, 23-27 September 2018, in partnership with InfraGard and ISSA.

"In what will be our 64th year of delivering the security industry's flagship event, the Global Security Exchange, or GSX for short, will build upon the change and reinvention introduced at ASIS 2017," said Peter J. O'Neil, CAE, chief executive officer of ASIS International. "This name reflects the Society's commitment to unite the full spectrum of security--cyber and operational security professionals from all verticals across the private and public sectors, allied organizations and partners, and the industry's leading service and solution providers-for the most comprehensive security event in the world."

GSX will offer a best-in-class environment for education, networking, and business building that will provide year-round benefits for attendees and exhibitors alike. The education program, led by ASIS, InfraGard, and ISSA subject matter experts, will deliver an immersive and interactive learning environment for security professionals at all experience levels. The exhibit hall will be transformed into a learning lab environment, showcasing new and emerging products and technologies such as machine learning, robotics, forensic analysis, and artificial intelligence. In addition, the revitalised networking events will facilitate relationship building and the sharing of best practices with peers from across the globe.

"From the Internet of Everything and soft target attacks to data breaches and drones, the velocity of change and risks knows no boundaries," said Thomas J. Langer, CPP, 2017 president, ASIS International. "GSX fills the industry's need for a global event that brings together the entire security industry, to exchange ideas and lessons learned, keep informed of current and emerging risks, and gain exposure to the emerging technologies shaping society and our workplaces."

While the annual event's new name debuted on 5 December, the full rebrand will launch at the 2018 ASIS International Leadership Conference, which will be held 16-19 January in Arlington, Virginia.
