

ASIS Announces Temporary Policy Updates for ASIS Applicants, Test Takers, and Those Recertifying

ASIS understands that security professionals are working the front lines across the globe ensuring that their organizations and the people who work there are safe. To ease any worries about your certification status or testing dates, we are establishing the following short-term adjustments to our policies. As the coronavirus issues evolve, ASIS will continue to monitor these changes and alert those affected. Please stay safe and healthy.

If You Have Scheduled an Exam

Until at least 16 April, Prometric has closed all test centers in both the US and Canada. Prometric is also monitoring their other test centers around the globe and is announcing test site closing on their website. If you are scheduled to take an exam, please check the status of your test center. If a test center has not closed but you don't feel comfortable sitting for the exam, please contact Prometric to reschedule or cancel. ASIS is temporarily suspending all cancellation and rescheduling fees. Once you have cancelled or rescheduled your exam at www.prometric.com/asis, please contact ASIS so we can update your record.

If You Have Been Approved to Take an Exam but Haven't Scheduled

Remember, all those approved to take an ASIS certification exam have two years to do so. Please consider not scheduling an exam until the emergency has subsided. If your two-year approval to test deadline is approaching, please contact us to extend your testing deadline.

If You Are Due to Recertify in 2020

Most of our certificants are not due to recertify until 31 December. We understand that as face-to-face learning activities are postponed or cancelled, this may pose problems for those who need to accumulate continuing education credits. ASIS will adjust deadlines as necessary and will send updates as they occur. In the meantime, please consider options for online learning. For members in particular, ASIS has many online offerings, including low-cost and free webinars, most of which are approved for recertification credit.

You may also consider accessing content from one of our Approved CPE Providers because content they offer has already been approved for credit by ASIS. This is a great way to take the guesswork out of whether your hours of instruction will count toward the education credits you need.
